The Navy Department has approved the sale of the old warship St. Marys, at the New York Navy Yard, and the Shearwater, at the navy yard, Phila-delphia. The purchasers of the St. Marys are Butler & Co., of Boston, whose bid was $5052, and the purchaser of the Shearwater was Samuel B. Wilson, of Philadelphia, whose bid sailing vessel of 1025 tons displacement. She was built at the Washington Navy Yard in 1844. For many years past she has been used as a nautical schoolship by the State of New York. The Shearwater is a steel schooner rigged converted yacht and was built in 1887, at the Atlantic Works, of Boston, Until she became useless for that purpose she was used as a training ship by the naval militia of Philadelphia, Several Honolulu young men obtained their first lessons in navigation on the St. Marys, Among them being J. W. W. Brewster of the Naval Station and L. B. Reeves, former harbor policeman.

Turbine Cargo boats.

A steamer is being built at Dumbaron, Scotland, for the New Zealand Shipping Company, to be fitted with triple-expansion engines, in conjunction with a steam turbine. The vessel is of 8000 tons and will have three screws. Reciprocating engines will operate the two side propellers. These engines will exhaust into a low pressure steam turbine which will drive the midship serew. This vessel will be equipped for carrying frozen produce. It is expected that she will make thirteen knots an hour. Her trial voyage will be to New Zealand and thereafter will profited nothing. run regularly from London, via the Cape of Good Hope, to New Zealand, returning by way of Cape Horn.

Neglected Waterfront. The first board of supervisors inaugurated a system of small green spots along the waterfront between the Brewer building and the Mauna Loa wharf, but if ever a public green was neglected these spots certainly are. The grass is seldom ever cut, and grows in ugly clumps, while the palm trees look half dead and are untrimmed. There is a general air of poverty about all these places which if subjected to a mowing machine occasionally, a pair of grass shears and a little pruning could be made into attractive gar-

INTO SPEEDY CLASS

The police department's motorcycle and its rider officer, Joe Leal, demonstrated their fitness yesterday in a peed contest with the machine of the Rapid Transit Company. Leal has iest ever, while Superintendent Pratt of the Rapid Transit Company takes onsiderable pride in his own machine, both being the Indian make. But Mr. Pratt did not feel equal to riding at full speed on a machine which is likely to hit up to fifty miles, and James Herrick, regarded as one of the best notorevelists here, was placed in charge of the machine. The riders chose for the contest. This was won by Leal, about forty motorcycle lengths ahead, after an exciting run.

TEST CASE UP FOR TRIAL TODAY

Just at present there is considerable discussion among those to whom the contribution box for campaign funds will wander as to what the probable makeup of the new Territorial and County committees will be. It is prettv generally understood that this election the contributors will want to know a good deal more about what is what than they ever had the chance to before and the fact that only individuals are allowed to subscribe now gives the individuals a better chance to ask questions than when the corporations were the ones asked to dig. The Territorial Committee, as now constituted will probably not meet again. "I don't think we'll have any more meetings," said Secretary William Savidge, yesterday, "let the new committee get organized and at work. I'm tired of it all, for myself, and I think most of the others on the committee feel the same way. Hard work and aluse doesn't make me happy any more,"

It is suggested by some that Jack Atkinson would be a good man as chairman of one of the new committees, being a man who knows the game of politics and is at the same time a tions in man in whom all classes have con- SILKS AND CREPES, NOVELTIES, Withness men, men who are Republicans from principle, have been heard to state that the makeup of the committees and the names on the party ticket will have all to do this year with whether they contribute to the campaign fund or not.

BISHOP MUSEUM RULES.

Editor Advertiser: I am sorry that the cares of this wicked world have hitherto prevented my coming to the support of Kamaaina, who expressed himself so vigorously and artistically in last Tuesday's Advertiser, in regard to the unreasonable and egregious rules in force at the local museum. I second Kamaaina in his contention that a man has the indefeasible right to retain his hat on his head wherever he goes and to refuse to give away his autograph free. Fancy, however, my consternation on my late visit to the museum to find that I could only enter its precincts by sacrificing my inalienable privilege of expectorating upon its mar-ble floor. I do not expect to be believed, but it is nevertheless a lamentable fact that the third commandment of the museum decalogue confronting and affronting the visitor upon the signboard at the entrance reads "Gentlemen must remove their hats and not spit upon the floor." I take heart with Kamaaina in the consolation that this mediaeval regulation relates to gentlemen only. OIWI.
